BEST BET: Race 9 - #1 Lucky Kitten

Making his second start off the layoff, if looks like Lucky Kitten will be primed for an improved performance. He ran poorly two starts back, and that race was following by a roughly six month layoff. Last time, he ran a good third first off the bench and showed that he was back at the competitive level where he was once performing. Edgar Zayas will be aboard once again.

LONGSHOT: Race 8 - #4 The Son Wind

First off the claim for trainer Gilberto Zerpa, this gelding is going to have to overcome the hurdle of a step up in class. However, this is a barn that bats around 42% with horses first off the claim. In addition, he can sit in a good stalking spot behind the speed of Curious Cal and Players Luck to his outside. Emisael Jaramillo has the call and that adds to the appeal.
