

RACE BY RACE ANALYSIS

By Acacia Courtney

Thursday, February 14, 2019

RACE 1:

7 – Snap Hook
5 – Run Rite
6 – A I Initiative

SELECTIONS: 7-5-6-4

RACE 2:

3 – Blue Magic
1 – Country Strong
2 – Money Purse

SELECTIONS: 3-1-2-4

RACE 3:

4 – Inhibition
6 – Over Sensual
5 – Parade Blue

SELECTIONS: 4-6-5-1

RACE 4:

2 – Indurate
5 – Wisely
8 – Vettel

SELECTIONS: 2-5-8-3

RACE 5:

3 – Grenadier
4 – Winning Drive
6 – Elusive Ro

SELECTIONS: 3-4-6-5

RACE 6:

2 – Dalal
7 – Gran Surprise
4 – Hot Fudge Honey

SELECTIONS: 2-7-4-5

RACE 7:

3 – Gracias Adios
7 – Little Christina
8 – Love and Lemons

SELECTIONS: 3-7-8-1

RACE 8:

1 – Diva's Revenge
3 – Music Maker
9 – Saucy Teen

SELECTIONS: 1-3-9-2

RACE 9:

2 – Andronikos
3 – Teak
7 – Shanghai Noon

SELECTIONS: 2-3-7-6

RACE 10:

6 – Brunette Princess
4 – A Bit of Both
2 – Bimini

SELECTIONS: 6-4-2-1

RACE 11:

1 – Wildcat Blast
3 – Dynamic Dancer
5 – Wahoowah

SELECTIONS: 1-3-5-7

BEST BET: Race 6 - #2 Dalal

This is a filly that I had liked last time out, and then she was bet down and beaten a nose in a very tight photo finish. Today, she is first off the claim for trainer Yvon Belsoeur, a sharp claiming outfit, and Irad Ortiz gets the call. She has been freshened up since the end of December and I think should be sitting on a big race today.

LONGSHOT: Race 10 - #6 Brunette Princess

Not that she necessarily meets an easy field in here, but this is definitely a more comfortable spot for Brunette Princess versus the G3 company she faced last time out with the likes of Chad Brown-trained Feedback. She has tactical speed, and the blinkers also come off today after the failed experiment last time out. Also notable is the fact that John Velazquez picks up the mount again today after riding this filly two starts back.