

JASON BLEWITT'S

Race Analysis

Thursday, May 23, 2019

RACE 1: 6 – 7 – 2 – 4

RACE 2: 1 – 7 – 6 – 2

RACE 3: 5 – 4 – 3 – 1

RACE 4: 8 – 9 – 6 – 3

RACE 5: 3 – 4 – 6 – 2

RACE 6: 4 – 5 – 2 – 6

RACE 7: 12 – 5 – 9 – 4

RACE 8: 1 – 8 – 6 – 3

RACE 9: 5 – 8 – 7 – 9

Ready to Start a Five-Day Racing Week at GP

With Preakness Day 144 in the books – congratulations are definitely in order to South Florida's top young jockey (and native of Davie, by the way), Tyler Gaffalione, on a classic victory aboard War of Will in the Preakness Stakes – Gulfstream Park readies for a brand new five-day racing week, one that rolls right through Monday's holiday Memorial Day program. Fans can expect successive nine-race programs on Thursday and Friday afternoon. Regular start times, too, of 1:20 ET. And yes, of course, a lot of cash in Gulfstream's jackpot Rainbow 6 wager. How much dough are we talking here? Well, Thursday's Rainbow 6 carryover sits at a massive $1.29 million; the sequence begins with race 5. Meanwhile, GP's Super High-5 wager – offered in the day's opener by the way, features a carryover of $1,795. Thursday's 3rd race is a highlight in my book for a bunch of reasons. First and foremost, this cast of Florida-bred filly / mare turf sprinters (5 furlongs over the GP green) has some quality to it. And in regards to quality, talent and sharp recent form, many handicappers – me included - are likely to look no further than Sugar Bolt. Sugar Bolt is an in-the-zone, fleet-footed daughter of Can the Man (me either) who ran really well in in two local turf starts last month (separated by 15 days) for trainer David Fawkes. I like her draw – stall 5 of 7 in this field of entry-level allowance / optional claiming runners – and believe she is fast enough to clear her biggest pace foe / obstacle in Dahlonga. Trainer Steve Klesaris has had a good spring so far at Gulfstream with a record of 3-6-1 from just 11 starters. His True Heiress is a major win threat beneath leading rider Edgard Zayas.

First-Race Post is 1:15 p.m. ET*